BRIANNA PERRY - STAFF WRITER · AUGUST 22, 2023

Many people look forward to the US Open each year, and for those who don't get the chance to catch the game courtside, their eyes are seemingly glued to the TV from start to finish. Luckily, we're all on the same page here, and many spots around NYC stream the matches for all those sans tournament tickets. So, while watching from a TV may not be exactly what you were hoping for, the drink and food specials that come along with a free livestream make it not so bad after all.

Here are some 4 places around NYC where you can eat, drink, and watch the US Open:

1. Recreation at The Moxy Downtown, FiDi

With the US Open right around the corner, the Recreation at The Moxy Downtown is the place to be. The retro bar is the perfect place to show off your winning serve in a game of ping pong (along with nostalgic selection of arcade games, board games, and skee ball) while enjoying cocktails and watching the pros on one of many flat screen TVs.
